Acts of the Last Congress-Mr. Zarati on the Indian Races of Mexico-Extracts from American Papers-The "Zona Libre"-Te-

Among the late acts of Congress which relate to the material advancement of the country are the following:—The return to Congress, without ob-servations, by the Minister of Fomento of the bill granting to Messrs. Rene Maissen and Felix Wyatt he right to construct a railroad from Vera Cruz to Anton Lizardo, and then to the line of the Tehuantepec Railroad, with several important branch roads, one leading to the Pacific Ocean. The concession grants certain privileges to the comstruction of the road, which are liberat. Mr. Maisson is the editor and proprietor of the paper published in this capital known as the Trait on, and Mr. Wyatt is a gentleman from Phila-ia. The effect of the return of the bill without scussion, the Executive of the nation thereby sig mifving his approval of the bill as passed by Con-The latter body has not yet acted upon the bill for the privilege of constructing the Tuxpan and Mexico and Pacific road, which was returned to it by the Executive with some amendatory observaons. There is, however, reason to believe that action will be taken at an early day upon this and other important measures. Several other offis, granting aid for the construction of new telegraph lines, have been presented, but the condition of the Treasury prevents any material aid being given. The same is the case with reference to proposed new

Mr. Zarati, a member of Congress and a friend of dinister Lerdo's candidacy for the Presidency, and also a newly acquired editor of the Siglo XLY., has been writing some articles on the Indian races of lexico, recommending the adoption of measures for their civilization. The Revisia comments upon his articles, and suggests as the best method for their civilization the importation of white women from Europe, who shall be induced to marry the Mexican Indian by giving them a certain amount of public land.

Bets to the amount of several thousand dollars have been made in Mexico that the Prussian army will not be able to enter Paris by assault or by capitulation.

The women contemplate marriage, looking for some one to maintain them. The husbands, though I do not know in what manner, speculate upon their women; but I know they speculate. The girls are enamered by contemplation, in order to have some one to take them to the theatre, to drive, to take fee cream, &c., &c.; and, finally, not being so much attached to their lover, they endeavor to have half a dezen to take charge of them. With great pleasure and as a just tribute of recognition to our worthy member of Congress and his illustrious companious, who with him defended the institution of the Frest Zone, we publish the following paragraphs from a letter from one of the illustrious men of our frontier, who worked so incessantly for the agrandizement, through all the ramifications which constitute the riches and the future of the State.

tions which constitute the riches and the future of the State:

November 7.—Once more I congratulate the inhabitants of the frontier on the triumph of the Free Zone, which privilege has been extended to Nucco Leon, Coahulla and Chihuanda. Day before yesterday said privilege was approved by a vote of cighty-five to thirty-seven. The champion of the important question was Emilio Velasco, seconded by Messrs. Ramos Gurman, Romero Rubio, Frieto and other Peputies. The government, except Messrs. Lerdo and Sasvedra, made a strong opposition against the configuation of the Zone; but not withstanding this the spirit of patriotism triumphed in Congress, the pistures of patriotism triumphed in Congress, the pistures of patriotism triumphed in Congress, the pistures of the mentioned Ministers, Lerdo and Sasvedra, having contributed to such a Tavorable result, who, together with the respective committee of Congress and the Deputies who satished it, are entitled to a vote of thanks from Tamauripas, and principally from our frontier. Our puter is the first to declare it; the organ of a people who, on being despolled of it, they would return to mercantile nuffity, never will forget the good services of the Deputies who, comprehending the true interests of the republic, as much in the mercantile and political interest, have save it from compete ruin and other evils which by the suppression would have happened.

In regard to the above article from the Revista

We are authorized by the Ministers Lerdo and Saavedra to make a rottlication concorning the estimations which precede. Although they did not take part in the discussion, because of was not a subject for their branch, they did nothing, nor did they use any indiaence for favoring the Zone, because on this point they could not sustain another opinion than that manifested by the government. So then we have been pleased to make this manifestation in order that it may not be believed that the ministers aliaded to may have contradicted in some manner the determination agreed to by the Cabinet in the question of the Free Zone.

Firing on a Spanish Gunboat by the English Sloop-of-War Philomel-Visit of the Colonial Secretary to Havana-The Case English Sloop Britannia.

The only event of interest which has happened here since my last is the firing into the Spanish manmel. It happened that the latter, while on a cruise through the Bahama Islands at night, spied the Spannard without any lights up. She fired a blank shot to make her heave to, and the Tornado not heeding it a second one was fired. This caused a show of lights, but the Spaniard continued on her show of lights, but the Spaniard continued on her way. A shot was then sent across her bow, which brought her to and an explanation ensued.

The Colonial Secretary of this island, Mr. George C. Straham, has gone to havana, and speculation is rife as to the object of his visit. It is supposed to be of an official character.

The owners of the British sloop Britannia, which was driven off to the Island of Cuba in the hurricane and captured by the Spaniards on suspiction of carrying arms to the Island, have put in a diatm for large damages, and it is surmised here that trouble may grow out of the affair if prompt reparation is not made.

THE MURDER TRIAL IN BINGHAMTON.

Interesting History of the Prisoner, Edward

Interesting History of the Prisoner, Edward H. Ruloff.

[From the Utica (N. Y.) Herald, Jan. 9.]

Edward H. Ruloff, now on trial for his life at Binghanton, is more than an ordinary criminal. The crime for which he is now arraigned cannot have passed from the memory of our readers. It was only in August last that the store of Haibert Brothers, Binghamton, was burgiarized, and a clerk—Frederick A. Merrick—killed while resisting the burgiars. The latter escaped. Two of them, named Jarvis and Dexter, were drowned the same night, while attempting to cross the Chenango river. The other—kuloff—was arrested soon after, He gave his name as E. Dallon, but was soon recognized, among others, by Judge Balcom and Mrs. Shults, Ruloff's mother-in-law. Should the trial which he is now undergoing result in his dying upon the scaffold his death will be the seventh known to us be traceable to his own agency.

Upwards of twenty-six years ago Edward H. Ruloff married an estimable lady in thace, in this State. He was of liberal education, learned in the law, especially the criminal code, an accomplished draughtsman, a short-hand writer and master of several languages. He had then, what he still retains, a pleasing exterior, a perfect knowledge of the art of pleasing, a sometting which commanded respect, and at the same time attracted and engaged sympathy and confidence. He was a doctor, a lawyer, a teacher, a mechanic, as he saw fit, and, what was more icmarkable, appeared master of cach profession. Suddenly, in the year 1845, his wife and child dispiperared, Ruloff was arrested on a charge of abduction, and was confidence of his lailor, Jarvis, and his wife, that they committed their young son, Albert M. Jarvis, to his tuttelage. The result of his instructions was a life of crime, which terminated with the Bingham-ton burglary and quick-following death in Chemanzoriver. The trial of Ruloff for abduction took place at thanca. He was convicted and sentenced to Auburn State Prison for the term of ten years. During this trial, we are c ceiving it has such as the confided it to a professional brother, who is still living at libraca.

In prison Ruloff was a model man. He quickly won the confidence of the authorities, and, by his talents, took the front rank among the prisoners. From designs made by him most of the carpets manufactured in prison during his term were woven. Immediately on his discharge from prison Ruloff was arrested on a charge of murdering his child. At his trial he did, as he is now doing at Binghunton—pleaded his own case. He was found guilty and sentenced to death. But the verdict was set aside by the Court of Appeals on the ground that no murder had been proved, as there had been no body produced. He was discharged, but was taken immediately back to proved, as there had been no body produced. He was discharged, but was taken immediately back to jail. Whether this was by his own request, fearing the fury of the people, or on the adidavit of his wife's people, that they considered their lives in danger with him at itberty, we have forgotten. Certain it is that lynching was resolved upon and the time for it fixes. The sheriff, learning of the meditated violence, hurried Ruloff, in a close carriage, to the steamboat landing, whence he was conveyed to jail in Cayaga county. When the lynchers assembled the bird had flown. Probably through connivance, Ruloff soon escaped from jail. In his wanderings, biding from men, he was badly frozen, The toes of one foot had to be amputated. Thus, while fleeing from justice, he received a mark which may result in giving justice its due. A shoe exactly fitting his deformed foot was left behind in the burgiars' hurried flight from the store in which Merrick met death.

Until his apprehension in Binghamton in August last Ruloff had not been heard from for a number of years. It has since transpired that once in the interim he had defended a comrogue in a Delaware county court, under an assumed name, and once in Cortiand county. He has also been engaged in writing a treatise on the grammars of nations. The manuscript of this work has been found in his room in New York. In his room were found burgiars' tools, disguises and various other appliances of rascals. He had recorded an assumed name, "Lenio," as the author of the treatise. It is probable he will never finish it. A gentleman, lately from Binghamion, told us the other day that a firm purpose exists in that city to lynch Ranoff it the jury do not convict him in this case. The whole story of his past life is revived in that vicinity and his death will bring a feeling of relief. He is now about sixty-dive years old. Twenty-six years have elapsed since the disappearance of his wife and child, Many of his evil deeds since then are known, but doubtless not the half. With age a better purpose has not come.

of his evil deeds since then are known, but doubtes he so to the half. With age a better purpose has not come.

Charged with murder and on trial for his life, with three able legal gentlemen engaged as counsel, he ignores all aid and conducts his own case. When we remember his past, so well known to the people of Binghampton, that the court room is crowded to its utmost capacity with people bitterly prejudiced against the prisoner, that the prosecution is conducted by a very able District Attorney assisted by the Attorney General of the State, we can form a slight idea of the nerve and assurance of this man, we must admire his courage and ability, while we execrate his conduct and the use to which he has applied his taients.
